FOR RAILROAD MEN.

Eighth International Conference of the Y. M. C. A.

CLIFTON FORGE, Va., Sept. 14.—The eighth international railroad conference of the Young Men's Christian Association met here yesterday, nearly five hundred delegates, representing twenty-two states and Canada, being present. It is thoroughly representative of railroad men, each delegate being employed in some one of the vocations of railroad life. Papers were read upon various topics of interest, after a permanent organization was effected, with C. F. Cox, vice president of the Canada Southern railroad, as chairman. Nearly two thousand people crowded into the hall at the evening session, and President Ingalls, the pioneer in establishing the work and buildings of the Young Men's Christian Association along the line of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, addressed the session. His remarks were chiefly on the great benefit achieved by this work on his line and the good results in the service obtained by its aid. A love feast of experiences, indulged in by representatives of the motive power of the different roads, concluded the first day's session.

NAVAL ENGINEERS OVER-WORKED.

Fifth Officer During a Year Disabled by the Severe Strain.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Considerable comment has been caused at the Navy Department by the news of the detachment of Chief Engineer Kirby of battleship Texas by reason of prostration from over-work. He is the fifth chief engineer to give way this year under the terrible physical and mental strain to which the engineer officers are subjected. Naval officers speak earnestly and freely upon this matter, and some of them say that unless sufficient naval engineers are provided to do the work efficiently there should be a stoppage in the building of war vessels.

A Defaulter and a Suicide.

MONTGOMERY CITY, Mo., Sept. 14.—Investigation of the accounts of the late Colonel Hughlett, ex-prosecuting attorney of Montgomery county, shows that he was a defaulter for $26,000. The investigation may reveal further frauds. Hughlett died at Wellsville, Mo., September 2, by what was said to be the accidental discharge of a gun, but developments show almost conclusively that he committed suicide.

INSURGENTS VICTORIOUS.

Spaniards in Cuba Lose Large Quantities of Supplies.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Sympathizers in the Cuban revolutionary movement in this city have received a letter from Cuba, which states that the insurgents made an attack September 7 upon a force of Spaniards in the village of Caimanera, about ten leagues from the city of Guantanamo. After a short engagement the insurgents were victorious, capturing twenty prisoners, two hundred stands of arms, fifty thousand rounds of ammunition, stores and provisions in large quantities, and medicines and cloth flag. The loss on the side of the insurgents was unusually heavy, one sergeant and fifteen men being killed and thirty-one men and officers wounded. It is not known exactly what the Spanish losses were.

SPAIN GIVES SATISFACTION.

Her Minister at Washington Pays the Mora Claim.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The Mora claim was paid shortly after 12 o'clock today by Senor Dupuy de Lome, Spanish minister to Washington, handing to Acting Secretary of State Adee a draft on the Spanish finance agent at London for $1,440,000 in gold. Mr. Adee gave the minister a receipt for the draft.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—American line steamer Paris, from Southampton, which was due last evening, has not been sighted up to 9 o'clock today. The Paris is now fifteen hours behind her own record.

Suicide of a Former Mayor of Reading.

READING, Penn., Sept. 14.—Ex-Mayor Henry A. Tyson committed suicide at his residence in this city last night, by shooting himself in the head with a revolver. Financial reverses were the cause.

CHRISTIAN RE-UNION.

Cardinal Vaughan's Recent Address Will End the Discussion.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Catholic conference annually held in England under the auspices of the Catholic Truth Society has hitherto been treated by the press as unworthy of mention, but has this year suddenly assumed the importance of a leading congress. The conference began at Bristol Monday and terminated Thursday. The questions before the conference were not new, but the meeting derived unwonted interest from Cardinal Vaughan's address on "Christian Re-union." The archbishop of Canterbury's recent missive on this subject, which was a reply to the pope's letter to the English people, required a reply, and Cardinal Vaughan gave it in such clear terms as will end discussion within the Anglican church on the basis of an agreement with the Roman Catholic church. "The kernel of the question of the re-union of Christendom," said Cardinal Vaughan, "consists in the admission of the Roman claim that the pope had received divine authority to teach and govern the whole church. The essence of the Anglican position is a negation of the Roman claim. Until this claim is admitted, no basis of reunion is possible." The cardinal further declared that he did not expect to witness the submission of the English people, as a body, to claims that were repudiated at the time of the Reformation. He looked to the slower process of individual conversion. These declarations have been ill received by the ritualists of England, and are reported to be also causing the pope disappointment, as a check to his plans for a reunion of the churches. The report was accepted as true among the members of the congress that at the next consistory at Rome another cardinal will be created for England.

The congress concluded Thursday with a pilgrimage to Glastonbury abbey, the oldest shrine in England. Thousands of pilgrims, including one hundred robed clergy, traveled by train from Bristol to Glastonbury. It was not very long ago that popular sentiment would not have allowed such a pilgrimage, but Thursday a large crowd watched with the greatest sympathetic interest the long banner-carrying procession, composed of Catholic guilds, Jesuits, Dominicans, Franciscans, Benedictines and Carmelites, alternately singing and reciting prayers. The scene was impressive and picturesque, and marked an immense change in the position of the Roman Catholic church in England.

LEAVING LOUISVILLE.

Grand Army Veterans Now Homeward Bound.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 14.—The visiting Grand Army delegates are leaving as fast as trains can take them away. The great majority are homeward bound, but thousands are going on to Chattanooga for next week's celebration. The commander-in-chief and his predecessor, with their staffs, will pay a visit to Lincoln's birthplace tomorrow. It is understood that immediately upon his return to Indianapolis General Walker will take measures toward carrying out the decision of the encampment that a test case, with the view of establishing the doctrine that a pension is a "vested right," be instituted in the federal courts. There are numberless cases of cancelled or reduced pensions, any one of which can be used as a basis for a suit, and an eminent array of counsel will be employed.

Late last night Mrs. Rosin, wife of a visiting veteran from Toledo, Ohio, while on her way to her hotel, was attacked by a colored footpad, who after felling her with a slungshot, which cut a bad gash over the right eye, snatched her satchel and pocket-book and fled. She was taken to a neighboring residence and medical assistance rendered, and this morning was out of danger.

NO LETTER RECEIVED.

Yet One Written by Dunraven to the Cup Committee.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Lord Dunraven is reported to have written a letter to the America's cup committee in explanation of his course in withdrawing from the cup races. At noon today, ex-Commodore James D. Smith, chairman of the cup committee, said that he had not received a letter from Lord Dunraven, and did not know of one being received by any other member of the committee. Commodore Smith said that the regatta committee will make public a full report of the communications received, the action taken in regard to the protest of Tuesday's race, and other matters bearing on the controversy. H. Maitland Kersey said today that Lord Dunraven has written a letter to the cup committee, but that he could not make the contents public. He said Lord Dunraven has no objection to the committee giving out the letter.

The work of dismantling the Valkyrie was continued at Erie Basin today. She will probably be fitted with her racing rig and start on her return voyage before the end of next week.

American Cricketers Far Behind.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—In the intercollegiate college cricket game today, the University of Pennsylvania eleven closed its first inning with a total of 158 runs. The Oxford-Cambridge players scored 284 in their first inning, and the local team is required to follow for its second inning in consequence.

There is no importer in the large cities who carries such a fine varied assortment of floor coverings as we do. The great amount of business we are doing in this country, and the special facilities we enjoy in The Orient, enable us to sell our goods
20 to 40 per cent. lower than city prices.
☞ Oriental Rugs are often moth eaten or rotten by water. Such rugs for the time being look well, but after a short use fall into pieces. Again, Eastern rugs annoy buyers by their wrinkles, puckerings, etc., etc. We have separated the rugs which are in this condition and offer them at a low price.

This Morning's News.

STATE OF TRADE.

As Told by Bradstreet's and Dun's Reviews.

Improvement Noted in the South and Southwest.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Bradstreet's today says: The week is characterized in trade circles by an unexpected, but no less pronounced, improvement south and southwest. This is reflected at markets from which supplies are distributed to these regions.

Relatively, unfavorable features are found in a quieter tone in dry goods jobbing circles; a check to seasonable trade throughout the central west, due to the unusual heat; low prices for men's wear woolens, and an unsatisfactory outlook, due to the depressed quotations abroad; only moderate orders for domestic woolen manufactures; cancellation of a few Nebraska general merchandise orders at Chicago, and the somewhat critical position of the American tin plate industry, owing to the heavy advance in price of tin plate bars, without a corresponding increase in the price of tin plate.

As Viewed by Dun & Co.

R. G. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of trade, say: A slight setback, which may mean much or nothing, according to the final outcome of the crops, is not unexpected this season.

If the government crop reports were correct, the situation would not be encouraging. But not much confidence is placed in the reduced estimate of corn, none at all in the estimate of wheat, and even the most enthusiastic bulls do not think it worth while to quote the government report as to cotton.

The fact is that we are beginning to market not far from 2,200,000,000 bushels of corn, though only about 600,000,000 bushels will be moved from the counties where it is grown; about 450,000,000 bushels of wheat, of which the farmers are unwisely holding back a large proportion, and about 7,200,000 bales of cotton to add to the stocks carried over.

The wheat crop is evidently larger than the department has estimated, though nobody knows how much larger, and is coming forward with more encouraging rapidity, no less than 5,773,173 bushels having been received at western ports, against 4,149,091 bushels for the same week last year, from a much larger crop.

The farmers have undoubtedly been keeping back wheat under an agreement among themselves, but it does not seem a profitable operation for them. The price declined sharply, about 2 cents a bushel, with little indication of recovery.

The price of corn has also yielded, with a strong prospect of the largest crop ever grown, and at 38 cents at New York a large proportion of the crop will be of little profit to farmers.

If we are to have a large crop of grain and small crop of cotton it is natural to infer that manufacturers may find large transactions at the west, but not at the south.

In the Industrial World.

The largest output of pig iron ever known, 191,029 tons, is apparently supported by a reduction of 64,000 tons in stocks of pig iron unsold, but the fact that the great steam companies have taken large quantities, which are not included in the official statement, renders the account of stocks less valuable.

The market for finished products is a little weaker, with indications of hesitation on the part of buyers at Philadelphia and Pittsburg, although prices on the whole are fairly maintained. There is great pressure for delivery of structural products and plates, but bar iron is still quoted at Pittsburg at 1.45 cents and tank steel at 1.19 cents.

The rapid shipments of Marquette ore during the past week have some influence upon prices of bessemer products.

Nothing of importance has occurred in the minor metals, though tin has been stronger at times, with London buying, and copper has been helped by the report of a big sale of lake at 12¼ cents.

Transactions in boots and shoes are rather disappointing. While the shipments continue large—152,879 cases for two weeks of September, against 168,915 last year—the marked weakness in hides tends to hinder buying. Western hides are offered at 33½ cents, which sold at 35½ cents two weeks ago, and manufacturers imagine that prices of leather and boots and shoes will have to recede. Orders at present are very narrow.

Cotton goods have been strong, with a comparatively good market for raw cotton, but at the close a decline is indicated, because the market for raw cotton has shown much weakness.

Sales of wool have been 6,147,900 pounds for the week, against 11,311,300 pounds for the same week in 1892, and there are indications that the domestic market is quite overloaded by the speculative purchases made some time ago. The manufacturers are by no means able to disregard the heavy importations of foreign goods, which have taken away a considerable share of their traffic.

Donavan's Sweeping Challenge.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Eddy Donavan, the world's professional 100-yard champion, has offered to run the winner of the championship of America for fun. If he is unwilling to run and wants money wagered, Donavan will run Bradley, Wefers, Crum, Lee or any other amateur 101 yards for $1000 a side, and will concede any of the above one yard start.

Serenity Resigns at Ecuador.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Minister Tillman, at Quito, Ecuador, states that General Alfaro and his army have occupied Quito since the 1st inst., and that all is quiet there.

Deserves His Punishment.

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 14.—Henry Dostie, convicted of placing obstructions on a railroad track in Augusta, has been sentenced to 10 years in the state prison.

Consul and Wife Dead.

SAN SALVADOR, Sept. 14.—Mrs. Multchmeyer died here last night. Her husband, who was formerly United States consul here, died a few days ago.

Skipped With Firm's Funds.

ROCKLAND, Me., Sept. 14.—The announcement was made here yesterday that Stephen Chase, a prominent politician and citizen of Rockland, and a member of the firm of Charles E. Weeks & Co., wholesale fish dealers, who has been missing for a week, would not return, as he was unable to pay several thousand dollars which he owes. He collected several thousand dollars for the firm before his departure, but failed to hand it in. He owes a large amount to business men here, for which they hold his paper for security. The paper, however, is valueless. Chase left home for the avowed purpose of transacting business in New York. The company heard nothing from him until a letter was received, stating that he had made collections for the company, for which he had never accounted, besides using several thousand dollars of the John Tuckerman estate, of which he was administrator. He claimed that he got in debt before he knew it and had to resort to this means of raising money.

Wreckage Drifts Ashore.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Some wreckage, consisting of spars and cabin fittings, has drifted ashore at Nauset with the name A. Heaton on it. Captain Hallett of the steamer H. M. Whitney, which arrived here yesterday from New York, reports that when his vessel was about two miles southward of Nauset passed a sunken vessel with spars alongside, apparently attached by the rigging. The vessel lies directly in the track of navigation, and is doubtless the A. Heaton. The three-masted schooner A. Heaton, Captain Handy, left Somes Sound, Me., Sept. 3, bound with a cargo of paving stones for New York.

Foul Play Feared.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 14.—Searching parties have unsuccessfully scoured the woods and dragged the creek at Kittery Point for the past three days in hopes of getting some trace of Mrs. Abbie Hillard of that town, who has been missing since last Sunday. When Mrs. Hillard disappeared she had on a common house dress, but wore her watch and jewelry, and the latter fact make some people think that she has been the victim of foul play. Her disappearance is very mystifying to the people of Kittery Point.

Colonel Warren Dying.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—At a late hour last night it was reported that Colonel John Warren was dying at the general hospital. Colonel Warren, who is 60 years of age, was passing the Masonic Temple several days ago, when a piece of granite fell from the coping and struck him on the head, fracturing his skull. Strange to say, he recovered consciousness in a short time and went to his office, where, eight hours later, he was attacked with convulsions, resulting from the pressure upon his brain.

Seal Fisheries Dying Out.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 14.—Dr. Francis Bacon of this city has just returned from a trip to Alaska. He says: "Arbitration came too late to save the seals, but the immense fisheries of salmon, cod and halibut could not have reached their desired development had the seals, the natural enemy of the fishes, been allowed to thrive." Dr. Bacon says that the people of Alaska are very much excited over the proposed change of boundary. They assert that the Canadians have no authority for wanting the new lines, which would throw open the gold fields of Alaska to the British through the proposed railroad they wish to construct.

Maine's Crop Report.

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 14.—The September bulletin of the board of agriculture says that the grain crop has been harvested in good condition, except some late crops in Aroostook county, and is very heavily bearded, the yield being above the average. The prospect for a heavy crop of potatoes is not as good as last month, but as the acreage is large there will be a heavy crop. Damage from rust is reported in the central and western portions of Kennebec county. The yield of corn will be heavy.

Hale and the Governorship.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 14. — The Springfield Union today says that it has it from an entirely accurate source that the name of ex-Lieutenant Governor Hale of Springfield will be presented to the Republican state convention next month as a candidate for governor of Massachusetts. The nomination will come from the hands of the A. P. A., and will be its official announcement of their choice for governor.

Street Commissioner Burrell Dead.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—General Isaac S. Burrell, street commissioner, died at his home at Roxbury yesterday. The immediate cause of death was heart disease. General Burrell had been passing the summer at Hull, and about two weeks ago came home in rather feeble health. He declined rapidly, and soon was beyond all medical assistance that could be rendered him.

Lawyer in Disgrace.

ROCKVILLE, Conn., Sept. 14.—Edgar N. Lull of Stafford, formerly a brilliant lawyer, has been sentenced to 30 days in the Tolland county jail for assault and drunkenness. He represented his town in the legislature in 1887, and was one of the men largely instrumental in making Hartford the capital of the state. He defended himself in court with ability.

Bank Clerk Indicted.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Louis A. Lee, clerk in the Hampden National bank of Westfield, was indicted yesterday for alleged embezzlement, and also for making an alleged false entry in the deposit ledger of the bank. The sum that he is charged with having embezzled is $1,950. He is 23 years of age, and at present is detained in jail in default of bail.

UNDER LOCK AND KEY.

President of the Defunct Granite State Bank States His Case.

EXETER, N. H., Sept. 14.—Warren F. Putnam, president of the defunct National Granite State bank, who was surrendered by his bondsmen, was brought here yesterday and lodged in Exeter jail, awaiting a hearing before the United States court on an appeal from a sentence of five years in the state prison for alleged embezzlement.

When asked about his being surrendered by his bondsmen, Mr. Putnam said: "When Mr. Patten of Kingston went on my bond, I old him I would stand ready to give myself up any time he asked me to do so.

"About a week ago by engagement I met Mr. Patten in Boston, and he said he was about to go west, where he had an invalid sister living. He did not know how long he would remain, and desired to be released on my bond. I thereupon went to Manchester and gave myself up. I had no one in view then to go on the bond, but hope some of my friends may assist me, as it may be several months before my case comes up in the United States court.

"The verdict of the jury was a surprise to my counsel and to every one else, and I have had no doubt of being able to get free. I have been engaged of late in business and working hard, expecting to earn money to pay my lawyer who is employed on my case. Since leaving Exeter I have lost all I had—mother, sister—and even my furniture, which I had stored, was destroyed by fire.

"I have been brought to the Exeter jail at my own request, being asked by the marshal which jail I preferred being taken to. Some people thought I disliked to come to Exeter. Well, I did, for various reasons and Past Associations.

"As I was brought to the jail, I saw one of my former horses being worked in a pottery yard, and it made me feel bad to go by my old home and see my woods all cut down, and the house where my mother and sister had lived with me. I shall be glad to see any of my old friends, and I hope in time to be justly vindicated.

"I was charged with not returning a certain $5.0 bond which belonged to the bank, and I had tendered a $1000 bond to the receiver in exchange for the $500 one, but he refused to accept anything but the identical bond called for. I had $20,000 in bonds belonging to the bank, and returned to him all but this one for $500, which I could not find. Why, I have taken twice that number of bonds from the bank, as I was entrusted to handle that part of the business for the bank. I could have at any time taken $100,000 worth, which I had deposited in Boston for the bank, had I been so inclined.

"I don't believe there was any need of the bank failing, and I have no doubt that if it had kept on it would have paid dollar for dollar. It has been uphill pulling for me, but I hope and believe it will come out all right in time."

New York's Counterfeiters.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The examination of Dr. Orlando E. Bradford and John H. Nixon, an ex-keeper of Sing Sing, who were arrested last Saturday charged with having in their possession two metallic plates and a quantity of fiber paper and silk thread to be used in counterfeiting obligations of the United States $100 bills, was begun yesterday before United States Commissioner Alexander. C. C. Campbell was counsel for Dr. Bradford and Nixon. Assistant United States District Attorney Bull conducted the prosecution. Nixon was held in $2000 bail. The bail in the case of Dr. Bradford was left at $25,000.

Bloomers Scared Horses.

LAPORTE, Ind., Sept. 14.—The city fathers of White Pigeon were petitioned by 500 citizens to enact local legislation prohibiting women from wearing regulation bloomers on the streets of that place. The petition also asks the imposing of penalties for violations of the law. The prayer of the petitioners is that horses are scared by the apparitions and that it is beneath the dignity of the sex. A counter petition is now in circulation and White Pigeon solons must decide the question.

SEASONABLE NOTES.

The first race between the Valkyrie and Defender decided the question as to which was the better boat, and with that it seems that we must rest satisfied. Lord Dunraven's extraordinary position can only be explained in one way, and that is that he covertly refuses to accept the judgment of the committee in regard to the protest of the second race. The tone of the criticisms in the foreign journals already indicates that this is the way his action is construed on the other side of the sea. Lord Dunraven objected to the New York bay course in the beginning, but finally accepted it and the conditions attending it, and the Defender was built in good faith on our side. Now his lordship covers his retreat with the statement:

"To race under these conditions, is, in my opinion, absurd, and I decline to submit myself to them again."

Of course the smoke of the battle must blow away before the world at large can judge the situation clearly. Till then we must submit to harsh and unfair remarks from abroad. But in the time when that famous New Zealander sits on the ruins of London bridge and looks over the few yellow pages left of the last English dictionary he doubtless will come on the verb "dunraven"—to slip out on a side track when you are sure the fight is going against you.

"Write the vision, and make it plain upon tables, that he may run that readeth it."

It was really a newspaper of modern date and dress. The print was clear and the special editorial just read was leaded and distinct. It bore on the mistake of sending missionaries to the heathen, especially where their life was not comfortable and luxurious, was even dangerous, and from whence came reports of sufferings that harrowed the souls of those who loved to be happy and undisturbed in their ease here.

It argued that no man or nation liked to be interfered with even in the way of kindness, and that it was bad taste to try to stop such doings as the rolling of Juggernaut's chariot or the burning of widows on funeral piles, because these were religious ceremonies, and the religion of others should be respected as one would wish one's own to be. It was a superficially fair and amiable editorial with an undercurrent of that sneer so hard to be refuted when veiled by a general tone of kind-thought-of-everybody,-but-Christians-shouldn't-be-so-silly-you-know.

There was a sort of confusion of mind after reading the specious article, and that may have been the cause of the singular change that apparently took place in that real newspaper. First the clear print blurred; then the straight lines between the columns began to wave; then the paper stretched but grew thicker in the process; indistinct figures crowded each other on what was now a high, narrow wall; colors flitted over it, and, as a scene reveals itself when the sun burns the fog away, the great picture of Michael Angelo's Last Judgment appeared.

It is the same but not the same! Christ, the Judge, with the Virgin at his right hand, is in the proper place, and so are the apostles and the patriarchs, and those sounding the last trump so vigorously, and Charon from his boat striking back with an oar the trembling sinners. The two beings of life and condemnation hold their open books and wait. As in the picture of the Sistine chapel there is storm and confusion, passion and anxiety, anguish, despair and coming tragedy. But the figures that rise and rest in expectation are different, and so are the saints and angels. In place of these servants of God appear strange figures, veiled women, the little Hindoo child-widows, naked south sea islanders, women in Chinese garb trumbling along on cramped feet, Coreans, Laps, Choctaws, Chickasaws, Cherokees, Armenians, Bulgarians, Ceylonese, Swedes, Samoans, Shanars, Karens, Africans, Asiatics, Europeans, Americans—millions on millions, and all with the mark on their faces of peace that came after grief.

And the great crowds are not people of all the ages, but unmistakably belong to the nineteenth century. So do the little band they bear up to the Judgment throne. And for these they witness in a loud voice:

"Take them all, Oh, Judge, and without question! For us they gave up home and country, ambition and honor and what man holds the dearest. For us they sacrificed their lives and harder still the lives of those they loved! For us they bore the sneers of the idle! We are the fruit from their faithful, hopeful and charitable hands. Take them all, tonsured priest and the Protestant parson and his wife, and the new woman with the medicine case; all those who gave us unmeasured love on earth, and hope here. Take them all without question!"

And he who held the book of condemnation closed its pages with a bang. The crowd shifted, and the little band passed up behind the throne. Old Charon paused a moment and asked one who grasped at his oar if he had been a missionary?

"Ah, no! I was one who not only stayed at home but hindered by thoughtless censure," gasped the wretch, and dropped.

Now the lower half of the vision was not as agreeable to behold as the upper half, therein resembling the Sistine picture, but in the glance given it it was seen that the figure of Messer Biagio, that Angelo put in the hell of the lower right hand corner, had the ass's ears and the serpent wound about the body, but a pen was in the right hand, and the face was that of a noted American journalist.

It was the whimsical vision of a moment, seen in a shorter time than it would take to say "Jack Robinson," but the words of Habakkuk came to mind, and, as commanded, it is written.

FATAL RESULT OF THE BLOCK ISLAND SHOOTING.

C. H. Blackman, the Chicago Board of Trade member, who was shot by Charles Bascom, a youth of St. Louis, on Pebbly beach cliffs, Block Island, August 24, died yesterday afternoon after a plucky struggle for life.

The wound which he received from a rifle ball was a bad one, and from the very outset was considered of a fatal character by Drs. Bull and Brewer of New York, Dr. Hall of Springfield and Dr. Husted of Block Island. On examination the physicians found that the ball had penetrated the liver, and that it was impossible to extract it. The doctors did all in their power to assist the unfortunate man, although it was a desperate hope at best, as the only chance of recovery lay in the possibility that the remarkable physique and indomitable courage of the man might make a phenomenal case of it.

For twenty days Blackman suffered intense agony, at times rallying, then sinking. Last Tuesday the left lung filled with water, which was twice drawn off by Dr. Swinburne. For several days the patient had been delirious, with the vital force gradually failing, and late yesterday afternoon the end came.

At the time of the shooting Bascom was aiming at a mark on a rock, while Blackman was sitting on the cliff watching the youth's efforts with the rifle. The ball caromed from the rock, striking Blackman, who was apparently out of range.

Sergeant of police,	Mr. J. H. Collins

During the following summer she sang in St. Louis, Mo., appearing with Nina Bertini and Harry De Lorme. Among other roles she sang Vladimir in "Fatinitza" and Ruth in "The Pirates of Penzance." During the season of 1891-92 she was a member of the Edouard Remenyi concert company, achieving great success as a concert singer, and has sung with the Maritana opera company in "Maritana," "The Bohemian Girl," "The Rose of Castile," "The Daughter of the Regiment," and "Martha." The Boston Transcript says: "Miss MacGregor is a singer of winning appearance and possesses a low contralto voice which she uses expressively."

Mr. Hanshue, who takes the part of Frederic, is a member of the Boston Singers operatic company, a new musical organization of first-class artists. He has a sympathetic voice of good power and range.

Tonic and Blood Purifier.

Edmund D. Barker, corner Pierce and Pearl streets, Westerly, R. I., says: "I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for about five years as a tonic and for my general health. I can truly say that it has had very beneficial effects. When I was debilitated and run down it served to renovate my whole system, built me up and gave me new life and strength. I regard it as an excellent remedy for the blood and would recommend it to any needing a tonic and blood purifier." E. D. Barker.

FLOATING.

Floating down life's rapid river
When the morning sunbeams play,
To the land we call "Forever"—
To some bright celestial day
Where the angels knee land pray,
At high noon the love and laughter
Of our friends resound with joy—
Cheering to the Great Hereafter
That we never can destroy,
Pleasure pure, without alloy.
But when night and storms shall hover

'Round the barque that bears us on,
You may find your former lover
False, untrue, forever gone—
Weakest reed to lean upon.
Then be brave and self-reliant
When the gulf of death appears;
Steady! Forward! still defiant,
Down the stream of rolling years
Floating on through smiles or tears!

—[John A. Joyce, in Washington Star.

PERSONALS.

....Emperor William has conferred the Grand Cross of the Red Eagle upon Count Marich Szecgyenyi, Austrian ambassador to Germany. Emperor Francis Joseph has conferred the Grand Cross of Leopold on Count Philip zu Eulenburg, German ambassador to Austria, and the Grand Cross of St. Stephen's upon General Bronsart von Schellendorf, German minister of war.

....Rev. Brooke Herford, D. D., of London, Eng., is expected to reach Boston by steamer Gallia today. Mr. Herford will go at once to Wayland as the guest of his friend and successor at the Arlington Street Church, Rev. John Cuckson, and is expected to preach in the Unitarian Church, Wayland Centre, Sunday morning. If for any reason the steamer should be detained so that he cannot reach Wayland by Sunday morning, Rev. John Cuckson will take the service.

....Dr. George Plumb, one of the chemists of the University of Chicago, says that the time is soon coming when hot water and food tablets will be the sole accoutrements of a kitchen. He says the essential food elements of a 1,200-pound steer can be got into an ordinary pillbox. One of his tablets the size of a pea makes a large bowl of soup. A ration case of his planning, which weighed eight ounces, contained the following supply: Three tablets concentrated soups, equal to three quarts; four tablets beef, equal to six pounds; one tablet milk, equal to one pint; two tablets wheaten grits, equal to two pounds; one tablet egg food, equal to twelve eggs.

....Dr. B. M. Burnett, husband of Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, publishes in a Washington newspaper the following effective denial of the story that he had separated from his wife preparatory to suing for a divorce: "I can only say that it is a fake out of the whole cloth, and one that is an unwarrantable invasion of a man's family privacy. I don't know who originated the story, but I know that whoever did attempted to sell it to several reputable papers, who sent men here to the house to see me, and, finding what sort of fiction it was, refused to have anything to do with it. The man who wrote the story never saw me, and there is no more truth in this alleged interview with me than there is in the rest of it. As to Mrs. Burnett's return to this country I cannot say. Her work may keep her abroad all winter, or she may come back before cold weather sets in. She has her work that she has to follow up abroad, just as I have to attend to mine here. That is all there is to the matter."

Take the Wickford Line for New York and avoid the rush on the sound steamers. Leave Commercial wharf, opposite Postoffice, 7:10, 10 A. M.; 1:20, 4:20, 7:10, 11:15 P. M.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1895.

THE CUBAN REVOLUTIONISTS.

The Cuban revolution has proceeded so far that the call is made upon our government to accord belligerent rights to the revolutionists. While it is true that the newly formed government is as yet rather nebulous, nothing would more surely please the people of this country than to have such action taken, provided the conditions justify. We believe Cuba ought to be free from Spanish domination and accorded the privileges of independence and self-government.

But what are belligerent rights? This is a question not easily answered off-hand, though almost every one has a somewhat definite idea of what is meant. In the first place it brings the contestants within the protection and restraints provided by a general understanding among nations, in case of war. For instance, it is a protection for those engaged in an insurrection against being treated as guilty of treason, and in case of capture being summarily shot. It entitles them to all the humanities which the humane spirit of modern civilization recognizes. It accords to both parties equal privileges, the same restraints, an open field and fair play. Vessels engaged in the service of either party have the same freedom of the seas, the same privileges in neutral harbors. A distinguished legal authority, often quoted, says: "When parties in rebellion occupy and hold in a hostile manner a certain portion of territory, have declared their independence, have cast off their allegiance, have organized armies, have commenced hostilities against their former sovereign, the world acknowledges them as belligerents and the contest as war."

In Wharton's International Law Digest it is said: "We ought not, in cases of insurrection in foreign countries, to acknowledge insurgents as belligerents until insurrection establishes itself on such a basis of apparent permanency as to put it, at least for a time, on an apparent parity with the parent state. When such a condition of things is manifest, then a proclamation of neutrality should be issued, and the insurgent vessels admitted to the same rights in our ports as those of the government which they assail."

In the absence of such recognition insurgents are but guerrilla bands, however armed and equipped, and held to be outlaws who may be punished as robbers and murderers. But it does not appear to be necessary to fully recognize revolutionists as a nationality in order to interfere for their protection. According to an article in the Albany Law Journal, the United States makes a distinction between "insurgency" and "belligerency," as follows:

"We recognize foreign insurgency by refusing to send our military and naval forces to attack its armies or its fleets, and by refusing to deliver up those concerned in it when they take refuge on our shores. We say in such cases to the titular government, whether it be despotic or liberal: 'We cannot intervene to fight your battle, either on land or sea; neither will we surrender political fugitives who have escaped from you to our shore or our shores.' But a recognition of belligerency is a very different thing. It is never determined on until an insurrection has obtained permanency and stands on something like parity with the government it assails. Such a recognition is announced by proclamation of neutrality, and is followed by placing insurgent and titular government on the same terms of access to the ports of the government by which the proclamation is made."

It would seem to be fair to infer that the time has come when at least the rights of "insurgency" should be accorded to the Cuban patriots. What the lawyers and statesmen may think or say we do not know, but in the interest of a common humanity no war of savagery in the hope of exterminating should be tolerated in such close proximity to our shores. It is not our province to interfere between Spain and her colonies except upon the broad principles universally recognized by civilized governments. It is apparent that those principles are not respected in the Cuban struggle, and that sooner or later our government should call a halt.

GREENHALGE AND HAILE.

There is an evident surprise in Massachusetts politics. The A. P. A. wing of the Republicans claim that they have secured a majority in the state convention, and that they will nominate ex-Lieutenant Governor Haile for the chief magistracy. It looks as though there had been a still hunt all along the line, but it is scarcely yet to be believed that it has proven successful to the degree indicated. The popular impression has been that Hon. Elijah A. Morse was their favorite, and he doubtless is so, though not to be had this year. The party now claiming control raise no objections to Lieutenant Governor Wolcott and will probably vote to retain him in the list of general state officers.

Should the present program be carried out, there will in all probability be a split in the party, for Mr. Greenhalge has many warm friends who will not consent to his slaughter in the manner proposed. At all events the party is not to have smooth sailing this year, and enthusiastic Democrats will begin to indulge hopes for the recovery of their lost ...

Kate Hardie made herself notorious in police court by wearing a dog fakeer's overalls while answering charges. She is trying the game on the country, but it won't work. The Atlanta Cabinet wherein day's work is done does not fancy being addressed by a man attired for working in Dahomey when he has gone to the trouble of dressing his best to attend the meeting. Such cheap democracy may attract a certain class in England, but nobody is caught by it here.

[illegible] seems at last. A Florida editor is [illegible] for suit for criminal libel instituted by a local base ball umpire, should it be [illegible] in general there will be need [illegible] of the courts. The umpires are a badly treated class, and if they seek to avenge themselves in the courts will make things lively.

The more we hear of the yacht fiasco the more we are convinced that it was neither the Frances nor the Yorktown nor the whole fleet of excursion steamers, yachts and tugs that roused the Dunraven anger, but that a single sticker built on the shore of Narragansett Bay by the invincible Herreshoffs was the sole offender.

The insurance authorities say that the investigation into the cause of the Boston Masonic Temple fire has demonstrated that neither electric wires nor spontaneous combustion were responsible for it, but that the fire was caused by a match carelessly dropped by a man who was at work in the building.

The Philadelphia Times puts it in this wise: "Hill and Platt have their spinnakers set and every inch of canvas to the wind for their race over the other course in New York this year. But this is yachting of another sort, in which the most fouls count."

Governor McKinley has the delegation from Louisiana to the national convention, and has thus scored a point. The sugar planters are devoted to any system which makes favorites of them at whatever cost to the general public.

Our Uncle Sam is short nearly $41,000,000 in his gold reserve account. But he knows how to make it up and will do so without embarrassment.

Spain is still sending troops to Cuba, and threatens to empty herself of soldiers on that island.

The Dutch word meaning bicycle is said to be gewielsnelrijevaltrappendemaschekergesnel.

The public schools of Springfield were closed during the bicycle races.

THE CHICAGO BIRD HOSPITAL.

Among its many admirable institutions for the care of the sick and disabled, Chicago enjoys the distinction of possessing a bird hospital, the only one of its kind, it is claimed, in the United States. This unique establishment has never been beneficiary of an endowment either by the state or at the hands of individuals, yet its manager, C. A. Cross, seems to be able to make the financial ends of the institution at least meet, if they do not overlap to any great extent.

It is only necessary to watch Mr. Cross for a few moments moving about among his feathered friends to realize that his heart is in his business. While his work brings a living to himself and wife, it also brings restored health to many a little winged sufferer, and this phase of his life-work apparently affords the bird doctor quite as much satisfaction as the other. His wife, however, seems equally interested and absorbed in the novel business, and he modestly attributes much of the success of the "institution" to her delicate care of the indisposed inmates. The birds, too, seem to understand all this, and evince their appreciation by signs, and sometimes utterances, which show how deeply they appreciate the kind offices of their physicians.

According to Mr. Cross, birds are subject to nearly all the ailments which infect humanity. The parrot particularly, which may be considered the aristocrat of the feathered tribe, leads all birdom in the number and variety of diseases to which it is subject. Pneumonia, catarrh, consumption, diphtheria, tonsilitis and a wide range of other throat troubles are among the common ailments of this popular pet. Even gout among the more highly favored in the matter of ownership is not uncommon among these, the upper ten of birdom.

Mr. Cross explains that the most fruitful sources of disease among parrots are improper food, and carelessness on the part of their owners in leaving doors and windows open while the birds are moulting, so that they then contract colds. Improper food results in stomach troubles, frequently catarrh of the stomach. This is brought on most frequently by feeding the birds potatoes and other greasy food. In the case of Charley, the Colorado parrot, his disease was brought on by eating meat and greasy food from his owner's table. The moulting season is the dangerous time for all captive birds, and as this is the parrot's season for doubling his feathers, sick birds of that species now predominate at the hospital.

Marking birds and canaries month later, in the early fall, and Mr. Cross says he always has his hands pretty full with these little singers during that season. Though he does not get as much for taking care of the smaller birds, they are really more trouble, as they are not so easily handled as the parrots and have less intelligence to aid in pilling them around.—Chicago Times-Herald.

RAILROAD RACING.

The attempt to distance England in the speed of railroad traveling which is reported to have been made in New York strikes us as of doubtful utility. Fast travel is to be desired, but only fast travel with safety. The general public had no part in the New York competition, and, as a railroad director participated in such risk as may have been run, it is to be assumed that all proper precautions against accident were taken. If we are to contest with the Old World in this respect it is clear that the conditions that justify fast traveling in the Old World should be observed. The railroads there as a rule have firmer roadbeds than ours, and their cars are considerably lighter. The comfort of railroad travel is not superior to that of the better railroads of our country, however, and, especially on the night trains, the manner in which the light cars rattle over the rails and swing around the curves of a roadbed not conducive to a feeling of security. Safety is evidently the first desideratum in riding over railroads, and there should never be a suspicion that it has been sacrificed to speed. It is much better to bear this in mind in advance than to have it brought to attention by a casualty.—[Boston Herald.

EMOTION AND THE FACE.

Even when certain forms of emotion tend to distort the features if provoked in a natural and direct manner, they fail to react upon the facial muscles when produced artificially, as they may be by a play, a novel or a strain of music. During the silent perusal of a pathetic story many people confess to a "lump in the throat," but it is very seldom that the corners of the mouth are twitched downward.

These deliberately induced or artificial emotions offer an interesting field to the psychologist. They evidently differ from their elementary prototypes as much as polarized light differs from direct light. They are what would else be both hideous and prosaic with all the colors of the rainbow, or that we are able to take pleasure in tragedy.

"And with an eager and suspended soul
Wonder to feel delight in woe."

If we survey the faces of a crowd of people at a concert, we find that they offer scarcely a hint of the emotion evoked by the music. The features of the listeners remain as placid as if they were asleep, and as if the inward excitement which thrills them, and which makes their pulse throb and their flesh "creep," were but the sham excitement of dreamland. As a rule, the same may be said of the ecstatic feelings which accompany devotional exercises. I do not allude to public prayers from the pulpit—where an earthly audience has to be borne in mind—but to the silent communings of private worship, when the soul feels that it has entered the holy of holies, and stands naked before the eternal powers.

If it were possible to set apart certain individuals in whom all emotional impulses reacted upon the features to the sympathetic, to the exclusion of the motor nerves, we should expect to find among them many strong points of resemblance in facial expression. Although, happily, no such creatures exist among healthy human beings, it is by no means difficult to indicate whole classes of people whose pursuits, or mental habits, give the sympathetic system a preponderating influence. Professional musicians, priests, and sensualists, all, as a rule, bear distinct certificates on their countenances that they belong to such a category.—[Dr. Louis Robinson, in the Popular Science Monthly.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS AND THEIR PROSPECTS.

Some one has wisely said that "Christian union is much like silence: it is apt to be broken when you begin to talk about it." The Christian Endeavorers do not say very much about Christian union. They do not expect organic unity, or the destruction of denominations, for they understand that denominations stand for the emphasis of great ideas, and they know that there is a great difference between denominationalism and sectarianism. Christian Endeavor is an inveterate foe to sectarianism, but is a friend of a broad-minded, warm-hearted denominationalism. The denominational rallies at the conventions are meetings of great power and interest, and are entirely in harmony with the interdenominational character of the gathering, which draws its chief inspiration from this demonstration of the practical oneness of Christians of every name.

Never were the prospects for the triumph of this interdenominational fellowship so bright as at present. Though strenuously opposed in some quarters, and much misrepresented in others, it is constantly winning its way. The fellowship is enlarging by hundreds of thousands every year. Every month sees four times ten thousand earnest youths joining this fraternity, which stands for loyalty as well as fellowship, for fidelity as well as for fraternity. Never did the young people before so hear the call which summons them to duty for their country, for their community, for their church, for their God. To the genuine spirit of the movement they have responded most surprisingly, and are constantly going forward to larger victories.—[Rev. Francis E. Clarke, D. D., in North American Review.

ELECTRIC CURLING IRONS.

A new electrical device for woman's use is an artistic little heater by which crimping irons and curling tongs may be heated without the dangers that often result from using kerosene or alcohol lamps. Electricity is also soon to displace the hot water. The means employed will be a very flexible wrap of silk that can be applied to any part of the body and heated at once with a current of electricity to any temperature desired. Instead of the hot water and steam Turkish bath we are to have a down comforter charged with electric heat, and a Turkish towel, charged in the same way, with which to dry the hair after it has been washed. In any house where electric lights are used these conveniences are available. Inside of each is an arrangement of extremely flexible wires, that will conform to any folds given the material in which they are placed. They are connected by a silk covered wire, also flexible, at the end of which there is a metallic plug to make electric contact with the lights in the room. There is said not to be the slightest possibility of receiving a shock or of fire from their use, as all the details have been carefully worked out.—[New York Post.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14, 8 A. M.—For New England—Fair weather; northerly winds, shifting to easterly; warmer in the interior Sunday evening.

FOR BOSTON AND VICINITY.

BOSTON, Sept. 14, 8 A. M.—Local forecast for Boston and vicinity until Sunday night—Fair; slightly cooler tonight and Sunday morning; northerly winds; rising temperature Monday, and probably fair.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS.

Pleasant skies prevail in almost every section of the country, according to the morning reports. The high barometer, with maximum pressure of over 30.30 inches in the northern lake region, remains in control eastward to the New England and middle Atlantic coasts. It will dominate the weather until Monday at least, causing a continuance of moderately low temperature. The temperature this morning ranges from slightly above 40 degrees, in the St. Lawrence valley and northern New England, to about 60 degrees, in the Middle states. It fell to 32 degrees in the night in northern Vermont, attended by killing frosts. Light frost also occurred in northern Michigan. A disturbance, unimportant as yet, is forming in the upper Missouri valley, where the barometer registers about 29.65 inches. This may be felt in the Eastlater, and in any event it will bring warmer weather by the first part of the coming week. Brisk northeasterly winds are reported on the southern New England coast.

The improvement was not maintained to the close and in the final transactions the market was barely steady.

Everything at the moment, from the treasury situation down to the international yacht race, seems more or less out of joint. The failure of the bond syndicate to respond promptly when the gold reserve first fell under $100,000,000 gave financial circles a slight shock, and whatever weakness there appears in market prices is evidently chargeable to that cause. As a matter of fact, actual conditions are unchanged. We are suffering from the existence of an adverse foreign trade balance, and until that is corrected the gold situation cannot be expected to right itself. No doubt remains that we have good crops of corn and spring wheat. Their good effects will be felt in general trade for a long time to come, and still we may have discounted at too swift a pace the favorable side.—[Boston News Bureau.

GENERAL SCHOFIELD'S FAREWELL TOUR.

Especially Pleased With His Reception by the Confederate Veterans.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Lieutenant General Schofield speaks in enthusiastic terms of the reception accorded him on his recent farewell tour of inspection, and especially as to the courtesy shown him in the Southern states. He specifies the courtesies shown him in Memphis, Tenn.; the special invitation tendered him by the city of New Orleans, and his reception by the Confederate Veteran Union and Loyal Legion and the Grand Army of the Republic at Houston, Texas. He was very much pleased with the friendliness of the one-time enemies of the nation, and the demonstrations of affection made by the Confederate veterans for the Stars and Stripes.

FIRE LOSSES.

Maine Sardine Factory and New York Machinery Works.

EASTPORT, Me., Sept. 14.—A large sardine factory, owned and operated by Daniel McCullough, was burned this morning. The fire was fierce, and the factory, being surrounded by other factories and by tenement houses, at one time bid fair to sweep the whole section. The fire was, however, confined within comparatively narrow limits. The loss on the plant is $15,000; on stock, $10,000; insurance, about $15,000. Some two hundred people were thrown out of employment. In addition to the factory a neighboring dwelling owned by the Matthew Thompson estate and occupied by Walter Wallace was burned, with about all its contents, the family just getting out in time. One of E. A. Holmes's smoke houses, full of herring, was also burned.

BROCKPORT N. Y., Sept. 14.—The D. S. Morgan harvesting machinery works took fire at midnight. The fire started in the Clark Sulky Company's building. Currie & Berry's factory is also on fire, and burning like tinder. The wind is blowing the sparks in showers on the Presbyterian church and near-by dwellings, which are very dry and liable to catch at any moment.

SUNCOOK, N. H., Sept. 14.—The house owned and occupied by Misses Eliza J., Mehitable and Phoebe A. Mills was burned at 2 o'clock this morning. Mehitable and Eliza J. were badly burned before help arrived. The house was situated a mile from the village. The fire was caused by an overturned lamp. The loss is $1,000; insurance, $400.

LIGHT BATTERY B IN CAMP.

Light battery B, Fourth United States artillery, arrived at Tyringham, Mass., Thursday, filing into the camp ground a little before 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Wednesday night was spent on the shore of White Lily pond in the township of Otis, and the march from there extended through Becket and East Lee to Tyringham.

The camp is situated in a field that is a part of the same meadow where battery K of the First artillery early in August held most of its drills, and lies on the top of the hill at the foot of which Captain Dillenback's battery was encamped for six weeks. The ground is a portion of what is called Fernside, which is a farm where a colony of Shakers flourished for many years. These Shakers settled there in 1792 and increased in numbers till about 1860, when twenty-three of their number ran away in a body. Finally the remaining brothers sold out in 1874, and the place was run as a summer resort. It is now owned by a club, but the old Shaker buildings have been preserved and freshly painted. The whole farm lies on the eastern slope of the mountains that form the eastern wall of the Tyringham valley, and the camp ground itself commands a magnificent view of the northern end of the valley, with South Lee in the distance.

The command, consisting of fifty-nine men, fifty-five horses, four guns, four caissons and two supply wagons, filed into the camp ground, and before long camp had been made. A street formed by twenty-nine tents, pitched in two lines facing each other, serves as quarters for the rank and file, while to the left stand the officers' quarters, consisting of four sleeping tents and a mess tent.

About a mile below the entrance to the grounds, while going down a rather steep incline in a narrow portion of the road, the wheels on one side of the supply wagon slid over the edge, and nothing but the heavy post of a strong fence prevented the whole team, wagon, horses and baggage, from rolling down an embankment twenty feet high. The wagon was heavily loaded, and it took eight horses to draw it up these hills. Had it not been for the strong post, much damage might have been done.

The battery expects to remain here till September 23. Most of the time will be spent at the target range on Bear mountain. This mountain lies off to the south a few miles, and is one of the deserted portions of the Berkshire hills. The guns of battery K thundered there during the early part of August, and now the same hills will reverberate to the sound of battery B's firing.

At the Bay View—Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Derby, Newport; H. Brown Alderson, Calcutta, India.

Mr. Tom W. Winder, correspondent of the Buffalo Express, who is making a tour of the United States, crossed the ferries this forenoon, arriving at Jamestown at 10:50. He went directly across the island to Narragansett, and expects to reach New London tonight.

At the Gardner House—Mrs. W. P. Sheffield, Jr., Miss Sarah T. Hammett, Miss Lena H. Vernon, Miss Louisa D. Hammett, Miss Lizzie H. Vernon, Miss Allman, Miss Ives, Miss Margaret Burdick, Miss Margaret Sheffield, Newport; Miss Barry, Brooklyn; Mrs. G. Frederick Jordan, Miss Jordan, Mr. Frederick Jordan, Philadelphia; Dr. Watson, New York.

Thursday was pronounced the most uncomfortable, if not the hottest, day of the season, and in very striking contrast is the temperature this morning. Overcoats and wraps are in demand and the hotel proprietors find it necessary to turn on the heat to keep their guests comfortable. The verandas of the hotels and cottages are tenantless, and while there are still many hundreds of visitors here, the place today has a very deserted appearance.

At the Prospect House—Mrs. Daniel Brown, Mrs. A. C. Titus, Newport.

An attempt will be made to organize an improvement society here, and a meeting for that purpose will be held Monday evening.

Mrs. T. P. Peckham, Miss Hattie French, Miss Bertha Peckham, Miss Etta Peckham, Miss Mabel French, Miss Kate Manchester and Master Audley Peckham of Newport spent last evening in Jamestown.

The men at work removing Spindle rock, off Rose island, fired a blast this morning by which considerable of the rock was removed, and the old bent spindle went with it. Captain MacDonald has been requested to give the rock a wider berth, as the swash of steamer Conanicut interferes with the work of drilling the rock.

IN MR. LELAND'S HONOR.

Dinner and Presentation at the Ocean House.

A dinner and presentation, complimentary to Mr. Warren F. Leland, landlord of the Ocean House, took place last night. The committee having the details in charge consisted of Messrs. A. C. Titus, F. P. Garrettson and John A. Pinard. The object of the meeting is best stated by the following:

"The undersigned, believing that some recognition is due from the people of Newport to Mr. Warren F. Leland, proprietor of the Ocean House, for his intelligent, generous and deep interest in the business prosperity of the city of Newport for the season now approaching its close, whereby the attractiveness of the city has been added to and its prosperity has been enhanced, agree to pay the sums of money set against their respective names to enable a committee to be appointed by the subscribers hereto to present to Mr. Leland an appropriate token of their appreciation of the obligation of the people of Newport for the benefit he, by his intelligent, liberal and enterprising conduct of business, has conferred upon the city."

The subscribers were Hon. W. P. Sheffield, A. C. Titus, A. S. Sherman, T. T. Pitman, Peter King, F. B. Coggeshall, F. P. Garrettson, George A. Weaver, A. C. Landers, George P. Lawton, H. W. Briggs, John A. Pinard, Postmaster Young, E. A. Abell, the Newport One Price Clothing Company, B. B. H. Sherman, Edward A. Brown, Gardiner B. Reynolds, Congressman Bull, Charles T. Hopkins, W. C. Cozzens, W. B. Sherman, Jr., A Stewart & Son, T. Mumford Seabury, E. H. Smith, Knoll & Anthony, J. J. Carry, the Newport Ice Company, Caswell, Massey & Co., John Gilpin, C. M. Cottrell, R. C. Cottrell, George E. Vernon & Co., J. A. & H. H. Barker, the Herald Publishing Company, Mayor Boyle, Howard Smith, the City Steam Laundry Company, John H. Crosby, E. B. Hall, Benjamin Weaver, J. K. Sullivan, William R. Hunter, White, Howard & Co., Edward A. Edes, Benjamin H. Richards, James A. Eddy, Perry Brothers, William S. Lawton and William Shepley.

The dinner was served in the grand parlor, ablaze with light and fragrant with the perfumes of roses. It was a fitting finale of a prosperous season for the guest of the night. Five large baskets adorned the table, American Beauty roses being the principal flower. The centre-piece, festooned with dark maroon ribbons, the gift of Mr. F. A. Abell, attracted much attention. The other pieces were furnished by the committee, and all were artistically arranged by Fadden. The table was also decorated with brightly lighted candelabra, the cloth was covered with delicate vines, and at each plate was a boutonniere.

Congressman Melville Bull presided and made a speech, reviewing the changes which Newport had witnessed during her long history as a commercial port and as a summer resort. He, as well as all the other speakers, paid a high compliment to Mr. Leland, congratulating him upon his business success, and all duly recognized the benefit he had been to the city.

Mr. A. C. Titus acted as toast master, the duties of which position he performed in an entertaining manner. Brief remarks, after the health of the guests had been drunk, were made by Colonel Smith, Mr. B. B. H. Sherman, Senator E. A. Brown, Mr. T. T. Pitman, Mr. Anthony S. Sherman, Mr. C. T. Hopkins, Mr. White, of White, Howard & Co., Mr. Israel Cohen, Lieutenant Greble, U. S. A., Mayor Boyle, who occupied the head of the table, opposite Congressman Bull, Mr. L. D. Davis, Mr. John Gilpin, Mr. A. O'D. Taylor and Mr. F. P. Garrettson. A telegram from John S. Cooper of Chicago, congratulating Mr. Leland upon the event of the night, was read.

Mr. F. P. Garrettson was then called upon to perform a pleasing duty, which he prefaced by the following remarks:

In the early summer of 1891 there appeared in the good old city of Newport a certain gentleman whom Dame Rumor said would possibly lease the Ocean House. The rumor spread and ere long it took shape in fact and our two daily papers announced that Warren Leland was the new boniface.

Though very few here knew Warren yet there were very few who had not heard of him. Coming from a family well known not only in America but in Europe as the foremost hotel proprietors in the United States, we congratulated ourselves on his accession to Newport and felt assured that the old Ocean House would once more took a new lease of life. There was perhaps a tinge of sadness too as we held in memory another gracious boniface, who had but recently passed out of its doors and stepped into the newer life. His generous nature we all knew and loved and his attributes seem to have fallen on the shoulders of his successor.

This evening we are gathered here to welcome you, Mr. Leland, and to testify our appreciation for the success you have made not only as a business man worthy and just but as friends whose every wish is that you will carry out your purposes which are for the good of Newport. Men like you with pluck, ability, and perseverance are the mainstay of the country. Men like you are to be emulated. Your success is partly our success. Your method of business is such that all who come in contact with you feel its practical influences. Your kindly nature endears you to all. No longer a stranger, you are one of us. I do not doubt but that you have somewhat the same emotions as others who have found out Newport. I speak from experience. A stranger myself some thirteen years ago to this old town I came. Today my whole heart and soul is centred here. It is my home. Need I say that I love its quaint old streets, the kindly natures of the people and look forward to its daily advancement. You undoubtedly are affected the same way. In fact we already claim you as one of us, and though you have other interests which call you away I see by your face that Newport is your home.

I therefore trust that you will permit me in behalf of those present to offer you this testimonial of our appreciation and regard for you. Long life to you, Warren Leland, is the wish of each and every one here present.

With these words Mr. Garrettson presented to Mr. Leland, in behalf of the subscribers, a handsome silver bowl, suitably engraved, as a token of the subscribers' appreciation.

Mr. Leland, in accepting the gift, made a practical, common-sense speech, and told how he came to come to Newport. He saw that the Ocean House was to rent, and came here to look over the property. He was pleased with the hotel, with the city and with the people he met, and he was not sorry that he had cast his lot among a people who had so signally honored him. He paid a glowing tribute to the natural and other attractions of the place and gave his views upon the needs of the city in a hotel line. He considered that good hotels with modern conveniences and well managed, would pay, and he certainly had prospered far beyond his expectations as the landlord of the Ocean House. Mr. Leland said a greater compliment had never been paid him in his life, and he should never forget the scenes, incidents and the spirit which inspired the dinner, the testimonial, the flowers, the good wishes and the kind words of the happiest night of his life.

During the evening Professor Bowron's orchestra played a choice program of music and was deservingly applauded. The guests of the hotel filled the doorways leading to the parlor during the post-prandial exercises, and entered into the full spirit of the occasion. At the close cheers were given for Mr. Leland, and the company joined hands around the table and sang "Should Auld Acquaintance be Forgot," the orchestra accompanying.

The names of the subscribers were inscribed on parchment and mounted upon a handsome silk scroll, and presented to Mr. Leland as a souvenir.

A guest of the evening was General Harmon of New Haven. Mr. W. M. Bates of the Everett House, New York, was to have been present, but was unexpectedly called to New York.

BLOCK ISLAND'S NEW HARBOR.

Yesterday, owing to some trouble with the feed pump of the Ocean View, and the northeasterly wind, which prevented the steamer from coming out under sail, Block Island for the first time in its history had the mail sent out from the new harbor, the Great Salt pond. Fishing schooner Earl and Nettie was in the harbor, and on her the twenty-seven passengers who desired to come to Newport embarked, together with Purser Ball and the mail. The schooner reached Stonington after a trip of three hours. There was no doubt but that the thing could be done, but the doing of it greatly pleases the friends of the new harbor, and Block Islanders generally, for the island now has two harbors, one available in any wind that blows.

SPECIAL WIRE TO THE NEWS.

LIST OF KILLED INCREASED TO SEVEN.

Engineer Held Responsible for the Great Northern Wreck.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., Sept. 14.—The list of killed in the Great Northern railroad wreck at Motley has been increased to seven by the finding of two bodies in the wreck. They were of unknown tramps, who were stealing a ride. The coroner's jury has rendered a verdict finding Engineer Haines responsible for the disaster. The jury also censured the company for ordering passenger trains to meet on a blind siding, where there was no agent and where no lights are kept; also in allowing a conductor to send two orders to the engineer when only one was needed.

BURNED AT SEA.

Flames of a Blazing Vessel Watched from the Long Island Shore.

NORTHAMPTON, Long Island, Sept. 14.—There is reason to believe that some vessel was burned at sea off this village Thursday night. Nothing definite can be learned yet, as no wreckage has come ashore to indicate whether it was a steamer or a sailing vessel. Just about dark flames were discovered by cottagers, and in a short time a large crowd was assembled on the beach, watching the unusual sight. About 8 o'clock the flames died out. It is thought that the vessel was about five miles from shore. The fact that a thunder storm prevailed at the time has led to a belief that the vessel was struck by lightning and set on fire. A sharp lookout has been kept by the coast patrol men since the burning of the vessel for anything which would indicate what sort of a vessel it was, but as yet nothing has been found.

THE JOHN ROBINSON CHURCH.

Ambassador Bayard to Lay One of the Memorial Stones.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, the American ambassador, has consented to lay one of the memorial stones of the new Congregational church at Gainsborough, to be known as the John Robinson Memorial Church. John Robinson was pastor of the early independent church in the village of Scrooby, from which place came many of the Pilgrim fathers. A party of Americans is expected to attend the ceremony.

Alleged Accomplices of Baron de Reinach Acquitted.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—A five days' trial has resulted in the acquittal of Director Felix Martin, Engineer Botsin and Contractor Andio of the South of France railway, who were accused of being accomplices of the late Baron de Reinach, who victimized the shareholders out of $14,000 francs over a contract. The accused pleaded that their conduct was legitimate. Their acquittal is ascribed to the belief that the trial was merely a device to screen well known politicians.

American Convicted of Blackmail in London.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Geoffroy A. Perkins, who claims to be a New York lawyer, was found guilty of blackmail yesterday. Sentence was deferred. The principal charge against the prisoner was that he falsely accused a coffee house keeper, and by working upon his fears of prosecution obtained from him a sum of money. The coffee house keeper declared in court that his business had been ruined by Perkins's accusations.

A Fast Mile on a Bicycle.

BIRMINGHAM, England, Sept. 14.—F. Chinn, the bicyclist, yesterday rode a mile in one minute and fifty-eight and four-fifths seconds.

King Christian's Condition Becoming Worse.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—A despatch from Copenhagen to the Daily News says that the condition of King Christian, who has been ill for some time, has grown worse.

THE UNIVERSITY'S SIDE OF THE BEMIS MATTER.

We have made no reference, up to this time, to the rumors afloat in the country with reference to the resignation of Professor E. W. Bemis of the university extension department in the University of Chicago, although much regretting and condemning the fact that the newspapers of the country have in many cases been so eager to accept and repeat what must have been known to be of very doubtful authenticity. We are now in a position to say, first, that no giver of money to the university, whether in large sums or in small; no one of those who have, in this point of view, made it what it is; no patron of the university of any kind, has ever sought, in the smallest degree, to influence its internal policy, in any particular, and least of all in respect of its courses of study, the teaching in any department, the appointment or dismissal of professors; second, the university, upon certain subjects, such as that of political economy, and others similar, has aimed to so provide that students in those departments should have presented to them differing views upon special questions, the object being to put the student in a position to form his conclusions with the subject, whatever it might be, fully and fairly set before him; third, it would therefore be in the face of the established policy of the university to dismiss a professor because his teaching did not, on every point, square with a fixed rule in this regard. The real reasons for the enforced resignation of Professor Bemis have never yet been given to the public. They are not in any respect of the sort so emphasized by unfriendly rumor. Whatever the university itself may have to say upon the subject, if anything at all, it will say at its own time and in its own way.—[Chicago University Standard.

"Alone in China" is the striking title of a story by Julian Ralph which will be a feature of Harper's Magazine for October. This is the first of a series of six Chinese tales by Mr. Ralph, with illustrations by C. D. Weldon, the outcome of travels in the East, which both writer and illustrator undertook at the instance of the publishers of Harper's. As no other country in the world at the present time so stimulates yet baffles curiosity, the light that Mr. Ralph is to cast upon China will enhance the value of this series. To the same number a timely paper on "The Future in Relation to American Naval Power" will be contributed by Captain A. T. Mahan, U. S. N., who advocates a strong navy as a promoter of peace and of American interests, and assails the dogma that the national defense should be the sole purpose of battleships.

Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers can be applied with at home, and is uniformly successful in coloring a brown or black. Hence its great popularity.

AN ATTRACTIVE DESIGN.

A Neat Little Cottage Which Can be Erected at a Cost of but $950.

The man who really means to own his own home is never ashamed of whatever any honest effort in that line may bring about, and if he cannot get a fine house he is contented with a small, simple one, so long as it is his and within his ability to pay for it. The man who is conceited and stuck up, so much so as to say, "I won't have any house till I can have just what I want and am able to pay for it," can invariably be figured on as he who will always be working hard for his landlord, and one who is willing to pay a big rent for his imaginary wants, and thus will never be able to save enough money to own his home or fill his ambition.

The design herein illustrated represents a one-story-and-attic cottage, giving a neat and attractive home for very little money, the estimated cost in any ordinary location being about $950. There is a cellar under the whole house, and the first and second floor plans give a clear conception of its lay-out, and a careful study will clearly indicate the possibilities of such a home. This might be the beginning of a larger house by the placing of it a proper distance back and in the right location to use it as an extension to the future front addition. I have seen many houses so started, with a very happy termination. Buy a lot while they are cheap, build a small house, get room for your family while it is small and you are all growing up together, and by the time your family requires more room you are betterable to bear the expense. The ground is more valuable, improvements more ripe, and you can then be right up with the times.

Plan—One-story cottage, 18 feet front, 28 feet deep. Height of stories: Cellar, 6 feet 6 inches; first story, 9 feet; cellar walls of stone. Side walls of frame, covered with novelty siding, giving a clapboard finish; roof shingled. Interior woodwork plain and finished with two coats of paint in appropriate tints. Cistern for water supply; sink and pump in kitchen; cesspool for drainage.

Full working plans and specifications furnished for two per cent. on cost named by applying to George Palliser, 32 Park place, New York.

ON THEIR WAY HOME.

Old Veterans Break Camp After a Successful Reunion.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 14.—This city was evacuated last night. The members of the "Old Guard" broke camp and departed to every quarter of the country, happy, without doubt, at the prospect of soon reaching home again, but leaving the southerly side of Mason and Dixon's line with feelings far different from those they entertained when they last broke camp in this section of the country.

The Ladies' Circle was in continuous session yesterday. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Mrs. Catharine Hirst of Kentucky; senior vice president, Mrs. Nellie Royce of Washington; junior vice president, Mrs. Lou J. Broyles; treasurer, Mrs. F. E. Georgs of Washington; chaplain, Hattie Mellenry of Colorado; councilor, Mrs. Gunlock of Chicago, the retiring president; council of administration, Mrs. Flora Davey of Minnesota; Mrs. Marie Ely of Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Frances Hubbard of Illinois.

The Women's Relief Corps elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Turner of Massachusetts; senior vice president, Mrs. Mary A. Ninekirk of Kentucky; junior vice president, Mrs. Steismier of Missouri; treasurer, Mrs. Bagley of Ohio.

In Behalf of the Pensioner.

The report of the committee on pensions, after reviewing the work accomplished by the soldiers of the Union during the war and the laws passed in their behalf, says:

"In some quarters the old soldier has come to be looked upon in the light of a burden instead of a great and patriotic privilege, as he should still appear when viewed in his true character.

"Referring to this view—wholly unworthy of a great and patriotic people—constructions have been put upon the laws, wise and just in themselves, by and under which invidens and restrictions have been imposed upon those ill able to stand up under them. The just provisions authorized have been grudgingly dealt out, as though the laws passed in the interests of the pensioner as a just recognition of the obligations of the country were criminal laws, to be slightly construed, and the public beneficiaries thereof were public enemies or parasites, seeking admission to the treasury of the United States."

After commenting further upon the justice of the pension laws, and the purpose for which they were passed, the report continues:

"We demand for our comrades the just due which the country gladly concedes. No niggardly cutting down of pensions under the guise of reissues, no partial and grading allowance that cut here and there, will meet with the full measure of duty that the country owes to the surviving heroes. Nothing short of full measure, dealt with an honest hand and liberal heart, will ever meet with the approbation of the American people."

The report, which was unanimously adopted, was read by Commander-in-Chief Walker, and was frequently interrupted by applause.

Business Wound Up.

The roll was called by states for the naming of the council of administration. New England members are as follows: Connecticut—A. D. Sanborn; Maine—A. B. Snipe; Massachusetts—H. W. Downs; New Hampshire—E. A. Badger; Rhode Island—C. A. Barbour; Vermont—E. W. Jewett.

Resolutions were adopted appointing a committee of five to arrange for the erection of a monument at Washington to commemorate the loyal women who served as nurses and in other ways aided the soldiers of the Union during the rebellion; empowering the commander-in-chief and counsel of administration to change the place of holding the next encampment should the railroads or hotels not make satisfactory rates; recommending that congress should pass a law equalizing the pensions of war widows, so that all shall receive at least $12 a month. Some of them are now receiving from $8 to $10 a month.

An effort was made to abolish the "house of lords" at all future encampments. By this all past commanders-in-chief would lose their rights to seats in future encampments. The proposition created a lively discussion, but was defeated.

Dr. J. B. Whiting of Janesville, Wis., was elected surgeon general by acclamation. Rev. E. J. Hill of New Jersey and Rev. Thomas G. Iliff of Utah were nominated for chaplain-in-chief. The vote resulted in the election of Iliff.

A rule was made permitting posts to consolidate as the membership grows less.

The senior vice commander, surgeon general, junior vice commander, chaplain and commander-in-chief were installed, and the encampment adjourned to meet in St. Paul next year.

Makes a Bad Showing.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Times today published a statement by the receiver, of the process of liquidation of Dalziel's news agency in America, showing that the unsecured liabilities amount to £34,000. The whole available assets are absorbed by preferred claims. The total deficiency is £76,000. The business showed an average loss of £20,000 per annum.

A Daring Navigator.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Consul Sprague, at Gibraltar, reports the departure from that port of the sloop Spray, in which her owner, Captain Slocum, started from Boston to circumnavigate the globe alone. He arrived at Gibraltar on Aug. 4. Slocum writes that he sailed from Boston to Gibraltar in 33 days.

NOT AFRAID OF THE VALKYRIE

But Completely Ignores the Owner of the English Boat.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—C. Oliver Iselin, although he has been quoted as saying that he would not race the Valkyrie again, stated that it was not the boat that he objected to.

Mr. Iselin said: "I will not race Lord Dunraven, but I will race the Valkyrie, boat against boat. The owners may pick out the course and the distance. Any yacht course on the Atlantic coast will suit me. I am ready to race as many times as desired, for $5000 a side. These details are immaterial, but I refuse to meet Lord Dunraven again in a contest."

General Taylor of Boston has been asked whether the offer of a $5000 cup for races off Marblehead would be open to a contest between the Vigilant and the Valkyrl, in case the Defender refused to contest. The following answer was sent: In case the Defender declines to race I shall make the offer of the Massachusetts Bay cup for a race between the Vigilant and Valkyrie.

The work of dismantling the Valkyrie continued yesterday. The men in the Valkyrie's crew seemed greatly disappointed at the fizzle. None of them would talk, however. In view of the work of dismantling the Valkyrie, it is improbable she will sail over here again.

Panic Was Short-Lived.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Yesterday was an exciting one, and for a time bid fair to be a critical one in the financial field, so that many feared that it might pass into history as a smaller edition of Black Friday of years ago. But last night the disturbing elements were better understood, and the outlook for the treasury and the maintenance of its gold reserve are comparatively clear. Uncertainty as to the intention of the government bond syndicate to maintain the reserve at the century mark and as to its ability to do so, had disturbed the monied interests increasingly throughout the week. A crisis was reached when an announcement was made that the firm of Lazard Freres, which is a member of the bond syndicate, had engaged $2,000,000 of gold for shipment.

Ball Players Injured.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 14. — The 'bus in which the Boston ball players were returning to their hotel from Union Park after yesterday's game was run into by a cable cars and several of the players were thrown to the ground. Second Baseman Harrington received bruises about the head and legs. Michael Gavin, the driver, had a wrist broken. Other members of the team were considerably shaken up, but not seriously injured. Harrington's injuries will probably keep him out of the game during the remainder of the season.

Cut Her Own Throat.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 14.—Miss Leonora Arvine, daughter of an attorney, committed suicide by cutting her throat with a razor. While her mother turned her back for a moment, Miss Arvine seized the blade from a table and inflicted a wound five inches long across her throat. Dr. Walker dressed the wound and sewed the gash, but a fit of coughing reopened it, and Miss Arvine died soon after. She was 23 years old, and had been suffering from a mental disorder for some time.

New York's Team Shut Out.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The question having been raised whether the New York Baseball club, which now holds the Temple cup, should defend it against this season's champions, President Young submitted the matter to the league clubs for their decision. It was decided by a majority that the series should be played by the clubs holding first and second places at the close of the season.

Assault May Prove Fatal.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Alex B. Nils, a Swede, who resides at Hingham, is at the Massachusetts general hospital in a critical condition from the effects of an assault committed upon him at Nantasket beach on Wednesday night. Nils is about 30 years of age, and a tailor. It appears that he was assaulted by a gang of roughs and left for dead. Peritonitis has set in as a result, and his recovery is considered doubtful.

Chinese Actors Barred.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The secretary of the treasury has directed the collector of customs at Ogdensburg, N. Y., not to admit any of the 200 Chinese recently landed at Vancouver, B. C., en route to the Atlanta exposition, said to be actors.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Professor Grose, assistant professor of history in the University of Chicago, will leave his professional position to take editorial charge of The Baptist Watchman at Boston.

Ravaged by Flames.

EGG HARBOR CITY, N. J., Sept. 14.—The forest fires which started three miles east of here struck the heart of this city yesterday, and thousands of dollars of damage has already been done.

Tugboats in Collision.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The tugboat Narragansett was run into and sunk last night between piers 3 and 4, East river, by the tugboat Kate Jones of Boston. The crew were saved.

NEWPORTS WIN.

New Bedfords Beaten on Their Own Grounds, 20 to 4.

The Newports went to New Bedford yesterday, to play their first out-of-town game in the three-city league. There was a fair number of base ball enthusiasts with them, the majority going to see the town before the team dropped so low in the league that they would be ashamed to acknowledge that they came from Newport. There was evidently something in the air of Olympic Park that made the players of the Newport nine act and feel differently from what they have been accustomed to. Five of the players, Sexton, Tenney, Lowney, Holmes and Brady, have in previous years played on this park, and they knew all its ups and downs, its hills and valleys. Incidentally it may be said that they dedicated the park to base ball, and in the opinion of many of the cranks of "Whalerville" formed a better combination than Manager Doe's present league team.

The proceedings on the field yesterday have tended to renew this feeling. The Newports opened up rather rustily, as do Freebody Park, and put in three errors in the first inning, New Bedford drawing first blood. For three innings the play was fast and brilliant. Then the ice broke; New Bedford was standing on the ice at the time, and when the team crawled out of the hole the visitors had eight runs. Waldron opened the hitting with a two-bagger to right, and on his second trial sent a home run to the same place. Tenney, Lowney and Brady put in singles, and New Bedford helped things along by several errors and one base on balls. In this inning Deans, in sliding to first, hurt his ankle so that he was forced to retire, Donovan going to short and Dowd to centre. In the sixth Newport added three runs on an error by Delaney, Tenney's home-run drive to right field and a base on balls to Waldron, followed by a passed ball, steal and Hanrahan's error off Dowd's hit. New Bedford made one in this inning, on Weihl's double and Delaney's single. In the seventh Whitrock scored on Lowney's error and Stern's double. They added their last in the eighth, on Weihl's hit, a steal and put outs. In the seventh the Newports scored seven times, on two bases on balls, Waldron's single, Dowd's double, and numerous errors. In the eighth Brady was hit, Sexton and Tenney hit safely, and two runs were scored.

The attendance was about 750, and nearly all were warm New Bedford "rooters." The game was long drawn out, but contained many good plays. Healy pitched well, Tenney caught in fine style, Deans had a pretty assist to Sexton while lying on his back, and Mahoney made a circus catch, followed by a grand tumbling act that much pleased the crowd. The fences were so close and the batting so hard that it required nearly a dozen balls to finish the game. The score is as follows:

NOTES.

The recent shake-up in the Newport team appears to have resulted in good. The nine certainly played a different game at New Bedford from that which it had lately been showing. If it will only continue this some of the people who have lost confidence in its playing in the past will forgive everything.

Joe Harrington of the Fall Rivers, now with the Bostons, was injured yesterday in Baltimore, in a collision between the team drag and a car, and will probably not be able to play again this season.

Today Newport plays in Fall River and the Giants in New Bedford. Monday and Tuesday the Giants will play at Freeboly Park, and the New Bedfords and Fall Rivers play together.

THE VISITING KNIGHTS OF SHERWOOD FOREST.

Monday the annual convention of the Supreme Conclave, Knights of Sherwood Forest, will begin in this city, with Newport Conclave, No. 30, the meetings being held in Odd Fellows' Hall. It is expected, if the weather favors, that more than five hundred uniformed knights will participate in the parade, which, as already announced, will take place Monday afternoon, starting at 3:15. Chief Marshal Louis Shanteler, of Newport Conclave, has made arrangements for a fine array of paraders, both on foot and in the saddle. The line will form on Broadway, the right resting on Farewell street, and move over the following route: Washington square, Thames, Dearborn, Spring and Bowery streets, Bellevue avenue, Kay and Bull streets, Broadway, countermarch at Rhode Island avenue, West Broadway, Marlboro, Farewell, Poplar, Washington, Bridge and Thames streets, to Washington Square, where photographs of the organizations will be taken, and a collation served in Odd Fellows' Hall. In the evening the visiting Knights will attend the ball at the Casino Theatre.

TOM WINDER'S BICYCLE TOUR.

Mr. Tom W. Winder, the cyclist, who is on a tour of the borders of the nation, spent yesterday in viewing the beauties of Newport and left today, via the ferries, to continue his trip, going to Westerly and thence along the coast south as far as St. Augustine, Fla., where he will cut across to the Gulf coast, en route to New Orleans. Up to the time of reaching Newport he had traveled 12,295 miles, and he expects that by the time he reaches New Orleans he will have covered about 18,000 miles, as against over 21,000 which it was calculated he would have to travel. It may be of interest to riders to know that Mr. Winder's outfit consists of a twenty-four-pound Eclipse wheel, and about fifteen pounds of luggage, in the form of coat, canteen, and haversack, with spare clothing. He is wearing his second suit of clothes, which are made for wear and not for beauty. He has worn out one wooden rim by contact with rough roads; and has his fifth tire on his rear wheel and the fourth in front. He says that he keeps going quite steadily and averages on good roads about seven miles an hour.
